Catching Up with Bianca Cordero 2009 Scholarship Recipient

March 2023

We tracked down Bianca Cordero, a 2009 scholarship award recipient, to find out what she's been doing since receiving her scholarship award 14 years ago.

What was your major at Rutgers University? What degree did you receive?

My degree was a Bachelor of Arts and I majored in Social Work and minored in Sociology.

Did you attend graduate school?

I attended Yeshiva University and received my Masters in Social Work

Briefly describe what you are doing now.

I am currently a Licensed Social Worker in NJ and currently work as a school-based therapist providing mental health services to high school youth.

What is your current job title and what is the name of the company?

Senior Primary Therapist at Jersey City Medical Center

Describe any prior work experiences.

After graduating with my Master's degree, I worked as a Case Manager with youth in foster care. I then worked as a Case Manager assisting families of youth with physical or developmental disabilities then I recently transitioned to my current position. I also work as an Intensive In-Community therapist through PerformCare on the side.

Do you still play or have any involvement with golf?

I play recreationally with family on occasion.

Please describe in a few words how the scholarship funds you received from the Foundation helped you while you were in school?

The funds helped me purchase books and supplies I needed which relieved stress of having to save up as much for those items.
